

AeU's unique learning for adults

As a university dedicated to working adults, Asia e University (AeU) has a unique place in the tertiary education landscape in Malaysia.

It knows the needs of such people, creating programmes that are not only recognised but are also of high quality and relevance. As importantly, the programmes are flexible in order to accommodate the schedules of busy adults.

The university uses the expertise of industry practitioners in developing quality curricula, and the methods of learning and teaching deliver industry-relevant knowledge and skills.

Since its inception in 2007, AeU has established itself as a choice tertiary institution among working adults, providing them with the opportunities to pursue lifelong learning and higher education while balancing career, family and social responsibilities.

To date, the university has over 10,000 students enrolled in 30 academic programmes through its eight schools, namely School of Education & Cognitive Science, School of Arts, Humanities & Social Science, School of Foundation Studies, School of Graduate Studies, School of Information & Communication Technology, School of Management, School of Professional and Executive Education and School of Technical, Engineering Education & Reskilling.

Students also benefit from the valuable real world experiences of their peers through numerous interactive opportunities. Programmes are rigorous, multi-mode and relevant.

AeU president Prof Datuk Dr Ansary Ahmed said, "The university is determined to reach out to an ever wider diversity of adult learners in Malaysia, by working with government and private organisations to promote the cause of lifelong learning and upgrading.

"Since our inception, AeU has steadfastly held on to this mission by investing resources and creating multiple pathways to make it possible for those who formerly have no avenue to earn a degree to enter university."

Working adults will find the university's programmes relevant—and flexible in meeting their needs.
